

Fridges graded to save energy

NEW REFRIGERATORS will soon be colour-coded with energy-efficiency labels as part of a major government energy-saving plan which aims to cut oil, coal and electricity use by 12% in 10 years. Fridges will be labelled using an A to G grading system, with A-grade being the most energy efficient.

